

FireWall
soprano and cello

feels like whispering , ashes, and rooms quietly discomfort and wonder lay on the floor

soundlessly old burned selves
push against walls

stretching a voice
pierces through the decay rising to a lit room
which never looks back
with bitterness

Copyright Rachel Cyrene Blackman
Publisher Stella Rose Music